

43 kids a day are expected to be diagnosed with pediatric cancer in the United States. Will you help me change the future by donating to National Pediatric Cancer Foundation to help fund research to find less toxic, more targeted treatment options for children battling cancer?

Will you help me change the tomorrows for children and families everywhere? DECA is partnering with National Pediatric Cancer Foundation and I'm taking action against pediatric cancer by participating in DECA's Social Impact Leader of Tomorrow Challenge! Please donate today to fund research that will help find less toxic, more targeted treatment options for children battling cancer.

National Pediatric Cancer Foundation partners with over 30 hospitals and institutions around the country to fund research and clinical trials for better treatment options for children with cancer. Only 4% of the billions of dollars the government allocates to cancer research goes towards pediatric cancer, so I'm participating in DECA's Social Impact Leader of Tomorrow Challenge to help change the future. Will you help me and make a donation to my fundraiser to give kids battling cancer hope for a better tomorrow?
